Tone Guideline: Write in the founder's authentic voice — a developer dad who built a tool for his family. Avoid corporate buzzwords and marketing hype.

Adobe Creative Suite Production Cues

Use these guidelines in Premiere Pro, After Effects, and Photoshop to ensure videos match Kaeluma's premium aesthetic:

- Typography: Use Outfit Bold or Inter ExtraBold for on-screen captions. Position captions in the center-bottom "safe zone" (avoid covering with social UI elements).
 - Colors: Accent keywords with Kaeluma Gold (#F59E0B) or Glowing Purple (#A855F7) on a clean white base text.
 - Audio Design: Layer in a distinct metallic "Coin Clink" sound effect every time a checkmark is clicked, and a nostalgic 16-bit "Level Up" sound effect for progress moments.
 - Editing Style: Fast-paced jump-cuts on speech pauses. Use brief zoom-ins (110%) on key phrases to maintain visual interest.

Week 1: High-Fidelity Video Scripts (TikTok, Reels, Shorts)

Day 1: "Before vs. After Morning" (Visual-First Hook)

- Goal: Illustrate the transition from routine battles to game-loop harmony.
- Photoshop Thumb: A split screen: Left shows an angry cartoon emoji labeled "7:00 AM Nagging", Right shows a child smiling at an iPad labeled "Level Up!". Font: Outfit Bold, text color: White + Gold.

VISUAL / B-ROLL CUES	AUDIO / VOICEOVER SCRIPT	TEXT & GRAPHIC OVERLAYS
[0:00 - 0:03] Fast montage of messy bedrooms, shoes on the floor, and a parent rubbing their temples.	"I used to say 'brush your teeth' eleven times every single morning. I hated starting my day that way."	How to end morning nagging forever. (White text)
[0:03 - 0:10] Screen capture of a child's finger tapping "Brush Teeth  " on the Kaeluma Kid Dashboard.	"Then I turned our routine into a quest board. My 5-year-old gets gold coins the second he checks off a task."	Quest: Brush Teeth +5 Gold Coins  (Gold accent)
[0:10 - 0:18] Close-up of the child's face lighting up. Play metallic Coin Clink SFX. Show the XP bar filling.	"He hears that coin clink, watches his XP bar grow, and levels up like it's a video game."	XP +20 LEVEL UP!  (Purple gradient glow)
[0:18 - 0:25] Parent sitting at the kitchen table drinking coffee peacefully. The child puts his shoes on in the background.	"Now he checks his quests before I even wake up. He's motivated by progress, not nagging."	He did it before I asked. (White text)

[0:04 - 0:12] Close-up of kid checking a quest, showing coins earned. Play Coin Clink SFX.	"In Kaeluma, kids earn gold coins for daily routines. These coins are their household currency. They have to decide how to spend them."	Earned Coin Economy 🪙 (Gold text)
[0:12 - 0:21] B-roll of kid debating whether to spend 15 coins on "30 Mins Screen Time" now, or save 50 coins for a "Trip to the Ice cream shop."	"They learn opportunity cost: if they spend coins on screen time now, they can't afford the weekend ice cream trip."	Instant vs. Delayed Rewards 💡 (Vivid Blue text)
[0:21 - 0:30] Creator points to the website link. End screen with a custom vector coin logo.	"They learn to save, budget, and delay gratification. Set up your family economy free at kaeluma.com."	kaeluma.com Teach Financial Choices (White text)

Day 10: "Montessori Routine: The Autonomy Hack" (Independent Play)

- Goal: Focus on independent dashboards where the kid owns the check-off, reducing power struggles.
- Photoshop Thumb: A young kid tapping a tablet screen independently in their room. Text: "THE AUTONOMY HACK".

VISUAL / B-ROLL CUES	AUDIO / VOICEOVER SCRIPT	TEXT & GRAPHIC OVERLAYS
[0:00 - 0:04] B-roll of parent asking "Did you get dressed?" and child walking away.	"The secret to getting kids to follow routines is removing your voice from the equation."	Stop repeating yourself. (White text)
[0:04 - 0:12] Show Kaeluma Kid Dashboard on an iPad mounted at kid-eye-level in their bedroom.	"We put Kaeluma on a tablet in his room. The dashboard belongs to him. He owns his check-offs."	Kid-Owned Dashboard 🧑 (Purple text)
[0:12 - 0:21] Close-up of kid tapping "Put PJ's in hamper ✅" and watching the XP bar move.	"Instead of me nagging, the app acts as the boundary. He feels independent, and he's proud to show me his completed quest list."	Autonomy > Nagging ❤️ (Vivid Blue text)
[0:21 - 0:30] Outro card with a simple tablet graphic and site link.	"Shift the control to them. Try Kaeluma for free, with no ads or subscriptions, at kaeluma.com."	kaeluma.com Build Healthy Habits (Vibrant Green text)

Twitter/X: Launch Day 10-Tweet Thread

Tweet 1 — THE HOOK

I spent years nagging my son.
"Brush your teeth."
"Put on your shoes."
"PLEASE get dressed."
I was the angry dad every morning before the day even started.
So I built a free app that solved it.
 Introducing Kaeluma 📱
 [Attach: branding/banner.png]

Tweet 2 — THE INSIGHT

My son is 5. He loves games.
He will grind for hours in Roblox for a digital sword he doesn't need.
But he won't brush his teeth without a 10-minute argument.

I realized: I was asking him to do boring things for no reward. So I gave his morning routine XP and gold coins.

Tweet 3 — HOW IT WORKS (Parent Dashboard)

1 Parents create "Missions" in seconds.

- "Brush teeth" = 5 gold, 20 XP
- "Put shoes away" = 3 gold, 10 XP
- "Read a book" = 10 gold, 30 XP

Parents assign frequencies and control approvals.

[Attach: screenshot of parent dashboard]

Tweet 4 — HOW IT WORKS (Kid Dashboard)

2 Kids log into a colorful, animated quest board.

They check off completed tasks → watch their XP grow → listen to gold coins clink → level up.
It turns routine checklist items into positive game loops.

[Attach: screenshot of kid dashboard]

Tweet 5 — THE REWARD SHOP

3 Kids spend their coins in the Parent-controlled Reward Shop.

Real examples from Kaeluma families:

- 30 min iPad time: 20 coins 🎮
- Choose dinner: 15 coins 🍕
- 15 min late bedtime: 10 coins 🌙

Screen time is no longer a source of conflict — it is a reward they earn.

Tweet 6 — WHY IT IS 100% FREE

I hate subscription fatigue. I hate apps that gate features behind paywalls.

Kaeluma is 100% free for everyone.

- Unlimited kids
- Unlimited missions
- Zero ads or data selling

I run Kaeluma on a voluntary, pay-what-you-can donation model to cover server costs.

Tweet 7 — THE ADHD BENEFITS

*Kaeluma has been a game-changer for neurodivergent families.
ADHD brains struggle with routines due to delayed gratification.
Kaeluma's instant coin feedback, sound design, and level progression provide the brain with immediate reinforcement.*

Tweet 8 — THE ADOBE / AMIGA ROOT

*If the name Kaeluma sounds familiar, we're the creators behind the children's YouTube show "Adventures with Amiga."
We used our background in kids' media and storytelling to build a UX that children actually look forward to checking.*

Tweet 9 — THE LAUNCH DETAILS

*Kaeluma is officially LIVE today! 🚀
No credit card, no paywall, no ads. Just a tool built by a dad to restore peace to your mornings.
Check us out on Product Hunt today: [Product Hunt Link]*

Tweet 10 — THE CLOSE

*If you made it to the end, thank you.
I'm an independent developer and a dad who just wanted calmer mornings.
If Kaeluma helps your family have a peaceful morning, then this was worth building.

Title: I built a gamified chore app for my 5-year-old. Today I'm launching it 100% free & donation-only.

Hey everyone,

I'm a developer dad who spent the last year building an app for my family. Today I'm launching it to the public and sharing the story behind it.

The Problem: Mornings in our house were chaotic. Nagging my son to brush his teeth and get dressed was exhausting.

The Insight: He'd happily spend hours grinding in Roblox for a cosmetic item, but he wouldn't spend two minutes brushing his teeth. I decided to make his routines feel like a game.

What I Built: Kaeluma (<https://kaeluma.com>) — a gamified family chore manager:

- Parents set up "Missions" with coin and XP values.
- Kids use a colorful dashboard, check off tasks, level up, and unlock colors/avatar rings.
- Kids spend coins in a parent-controlled Reward Shop (e.g., screen time, dessert).

Stack: Next.js, Supabase, Stripe, Vercel, Resend.

The Donation Model: I'm tired of monthly subscriptions and feature-gated parenting apps. Kaeluma is 100% free with no ads. I've placed a voluntary Stripe tip jar in the settings. If it saves your family's mornings, you can support us. If not, use it for free.

Love to hear your feedback, especially from other parents!

Title: We ended our morning routine battles with an ad-free visual "dopamine loop." Sharing what worked.

Hey everyone,

Our son (7, ADHD combined type) has always struggled with daily transitions. We tried stickers, whiteboards, and chore charts. They worked for a week before the novelty wore off.

As a developer, I spent some time researching why those failed. ADHD brains struggle with delayed gratification—they need immediate feedback loops.

I built a system that treats routines like an RPG quest board. Here's why it has kept him motivated for six months:

- Immediate Feedback: Tapping a mission plays a metal coin clink sound and fills an XP bar instantly. It provides dopamine in the moment, not at the end of the week.
- Visual Progression: He unlocks custom dashboard themes and animated avatar rings as he levels up, giving him a sense of digital progression.
- Balanced Economy: He earns coins to spend on things like screen time or picking dinner. It teaches him the value of his efforts.

I made the app public and completely free (no paywalls, no ads, just a voluntary donation link in settings) because I know how hard it is to find tools that actually help neurodivergent kids. It's called Kaeluma (kaeluma.com).

Even if you build this manually on a whiteboard, the trick is making the reward immediate and visual. What routine strategies have actually stuck for your kids?

Product Hunt First Comment Copy

Post within 5 minutes of going live.

 Hi Product Hunt! I'm Jayson, the developer and dad behind Kaeluma.

Kaeluma started because I was tired of starting every morning angry at my 5-year-old to brush his teeth and get dressed.

Seeing how much he loved grinding for rewards in games, I decided to turn his morning routine into an RPG. Now he runs to check his quest board before I even get out of bed.

To keep Kaeluma accessible to every family, there are no subscriptions, ads, or paywalls. It is completely free, supported entirely by voluntary parent donations via Stripe to cover hosting costs.

I'd love for you to try it with your family:

1. What is your kid's first quest?
2. What reward did they save up for?

Thank you so much for supporting an indie developer dad! 🍕

Hey Amiga Families! 🌟

If you love the adventures we create on screen, we have a special surprise for you!

Behind the scenes, we are parents who struggle with the exact same daily battles as you—getting kids to brush their teeth, put away shoes, and follow routines without nagging.

So, we built Kaeluma — a 100% free, ad-free app that turns daily chores into real-life quests! Your kids can earn gold coins, gain XP, and level up, then spend those coins in a reward shop you control (like earning screen time or dessert!).

We built it for our own kids, and it worked so well we wanted to share it with you. There are no subscriptions or paywalls.
